The contents of this book

Comprising the entire capturing records of the butterflies in Thailand in the literature existing viz. the explanation of all the Thai butterflies consisting of 1,300 species with the plot charts of their distribution inserted. And this book publicizes and illustrates the valuable specimens captured by the author, Y. Kimura.

In recent years more and more mountains and forests in wide area of South-East Asia are deforested, and many entomologists are entertaining a serious apprehension of the extinction of the creatures living in the area. This book now is an important material which could not be neglected for the study and researches on of the butterflies inhabiting in South-East Asia.

The synonym lists inserted in the last pages are made after examining the original literature as carefully as possible. The errors in the descriptions and illustrations in the respective literature are also corrected with much attention.
